At Christopher Pyle, CPA we utilize value added billing which is the practice of setting the fee based on the value of the services performed. Our fee is based on the project that you want performed and not on an hourly rate. In this manner, the fee is discussed and agreed on before the project is started so that there are no surprises when the job is completed.

Value added billing takes out the element of the unknown, the uncertainty and the fear that a project cost could shoot through the roof. We define the services and then agree on the fee. We clarify your expectations and then agree on the fee to perform the project.

Value added billing works for the client. It pushes us to cut down on the time spent on the job and it also increases efficiency by not having to track billable time and by relying more on technology to turn around jobs quicker.
